The returns presented are net of all relevant fees, charges, and costs associated with the private retirement schemes investment. These may include, but are not limited to, management fees, trustee fees, and other applicable charges. Over time, such fees and charges can materially reduce the overall returns on your investment.

It is important to note that the sales charge is deducted upfront and directly reduces the amount of the initial investment that is allocated to the fund, which in turn can have the effect of lowering returns to investors in the long run. These costs may be deducted from your investment amount, from the returns generated, or directly from the Fund's assets, and are reflected in the unit price (NAV per unit). This includes expenses related to the marketing and distribution of the Fund. Additionally, all fees and charges payable to the Manager and the Trustee are subject to applicable taxes and/or duties, which may vary from time to time as imposed by the government.

Given the impact these costs can have on your investment returns, investors are strongly advised to read and understand the contents of the Fund's disclosure documents and consider the cumulative impact of these costs before making any investment decision.

Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance and that unit prices and investment returns may go down, as well up.

PRS Provider's Commentary (as at 30 April 2026)

Following the UAE's announcement to withdraw from OPEC, oil prices reacted in a relatively muted manner. However, with the straits of Hormuz remains close, oil price may stay elevated in near term and provide a temporary fiscal cushion for Malaysia. Over the long term, once the geopolitical premium fades, a "price war" scenario would likely drive Brent price lower. That said, Malaysia's government efforts to diversify its economy years ago are finally paying off. If Putrajaya is holding firm on its 3.5% deficit target and BNM maintains the OPR, we think the local bond market will continue to stay resilient, given the ample liquidity in the market.

We have shifted to a more constructive, risk on stance and increased portfolio duration, supported by improving geopolitical visibility around potential US-Iran peace deal. Markets appear to have largely priced in this scenario. Within the curve, we continue to favor the belly (5-7 years), where carry and roll down dynamics remain particularly attractive and provide a stable income. We maintain a preference for high quality corporate bonds and sukuk over government securities for core holdings, supported by solid fundamentals and selective scope for spread compression.
