The returns presented are net of all relevant fees, charges, and costs associated with the wholesale investment. These may include, but are not limited to, management fees, trustee fees, and other applicable charges. Over time, such fees and charges can materially reduce the overall returns on your investment.

It is important to note that the sales charge is deducted upfront and directly reduces the amount of the initial investment that is allocated to the fund, which in turn can have the effect of lowering returns to investors in the long run. These costs may be deducted from your investment amount, from the returns generated, or directly from the Fund's assets, and are reflected in the unit price (NAV per unit). This includes expenses related to the marketing and distribution of the Fund. Additionally, all fees and charges payable to the Manager and the Trustee are subject to applicable taxes and/or duties, which may vary from time to time as imposed by the government.

Given the impact these costs can have on your investment returns, investors are strongly advised to read and understand the contents of the Fund's information memorandum and consider the cumulative impact of these costs before making any investment decision.

Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance and that unit prices and investment returns may go down, as well up.

Target Fund Manager's Commentary (as at 28 February 2026)

The Target Fund continued to focus on European companies that can benefit from long-term competitive advantages, significant pricing power, and high barriers to entry.

Regarding key transactions in the Target Fund, we sold our holdings in Amadeus IT Group, a Spanish name from the hotels, resorts and cruise lines area, and Nemetschek SE, a German name operating in the application software area. Additions to the portfolios were Inditex, a Spanish apparel retailer, and Gaztransport & Technigaz, a French company operating in the oil and gas storage and transportation area.

The Target Fund's top holdings were ASML, a Dutch name operating in the semiconductor materials and equipment area, AstraZeneca, a British pharmaceutical company, and Schneider Electric, a French name operating in the electrical components and equipment area. The Target Fund's heaviest overweights were the two names from Sweden – Atlas Copco, an industrial machinery name, and Assa Abloy, a company supplying building products – as well as L'Oréal, a French name from the personal care products sector. On the other hand, the two Swiss names from the Pharmaceuticals sector – Novartis and Roche – as well as Unilever, a British name from the personal care products sector, were the Target Fund's main underweights at the end of February.

Due to the Target Fund's specific stock selection approach, its average earnings per share (EPS) ratio was higher than the corresponding benchmark figure (16.3 versus 15.2). This reflects the Target Fund's quality bias. Overall, stock selection resulted in the following sector and country allocations: the Target Fund was overweight in the Industrials, Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology areas, while it was underweight in the Financials, Health Care and Utilities sectors. From a regional perspective, the Target Fund had an overweight exposure to stocks from Sweden, France and Ireland, whereas stocks from Switzerland, Spain and Italy were underweight.
