The returns presented are net of all relevant fees, charges, and costs associated with the wholesale investment. These may include, but are not limited to, management fees, trustee fees, and other applicable charges. Over time, such fees and charges can materially reduce the overall returns on your investment.

It is important to note that the sales charge is deducted upfront and directly reduces the amount of the initial investment that is allocated to the fund, which in turn can have the effect of lowering returns to investors in the long run. These costs may be deducted from your investment amount, from the returns generated, or directly from the Fund's assets, and are reflected in the unit price (NAV per unit). This includes expenses related to the marketing and distribution of the Fund. Additionally, all fees and charges payable to the Manager and the Trustee are subject to applicable taxes and/or duties, which may vary from time to time as imposed by the government.

Given the impact these costs can have on your investment returns, investors are strongly advised to read and understand the contents of the Fund's information memorandum and consider the cumulative impact of these costs before making any investment decision.

Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance and that unit prices and investment returns may go down, as well up.

Target Fund Manager's Commentary (as at 31 August 2026)

The Target Fund continued to focus on European companies that can benefit from long-term competitive advantages, significant pricing power, and high barriers to entry.

During the month under review, we sold our holdings in Rotork, a British manufacturer of industrial machinery. Besides, we added two companies from Germany – Nemetschek SE, a name operating in the application software area, and Infineon Technologies, a semiconductor company, to the portfolio.

The top holdings of the Target Fund were two companies from France – L'Oréal, a name operating in the personal care products area, and Schneider Electric, a firm from the electrical components and equipment sector, as well as ASML, a Dutch company operating in the semiconductor materials and equipment area. The Target Fund's heaviest overweights were Kingspan Group, Deutsche Börse and L'Oréal. On the other hand, two companies from Switzerland – Roche, a pharmaceutical company, and UBS, a firm from the diversified capital markets sector, as well as Rolls Royce, a British aerospace and defence name, were the Target Fund's main underweights at the end of August.

As a result of the Target Fund's specific stock selection approach, its average earnings per share (EPS) ratio was higher than the corresponding benchmark figure (16.6 versus 15.6). This reflects the Target Fund's quality bias. In terms of general portfolio allocation, active management resulted in the following sector and country positionings: equities from the Industrials, Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary were overweight, while the Target Fund only held selective positions in Financials, Health Care and Utilities. From a regional perspective, the Target Fund had an overweight exposure to stocks from France, Ireland and Germany, whereas stocks from Switzerland, the UK and Denmark were underweight.
