Target Fund Manager's Commentary (as at 31 March 2025)

European equities gained in Q1. The Target Fund outperformed the MSCI Europe index.

The Target Fund substantially outperformed the index in Q1, thanks largely to stock selection within financials and healthcare, as well as the lack of exposure to information technology. French bank Société Générale was the largest individual contributor to relative returns. We felt last year that the market was overly pessimistic on French banks due to headwinds such as regulated deposit bases, punitive loan pricing caps, and an inflexible labour market. These factors had left Societe Generale trading at a deep discount to tangible book value. However, management has since outlined a credible path to improved profitability. The bank is well-capitalised. Other financial sector holdings also supported relative performance, including ABN Amro and Prudential. In healthcare, avoidance of Novo Nordisk supported relative performance. Within communication services, satellite operator SES was a positive contributor. Europe's need to be more self-sufficient in areas such as defence and satellite communications helped support the shares. SES has previously announced a pivot to military network provision. Orange also added value after disclosing good Q4 results and raising guidance for 2025. Our positions in trucks group Iveco also added value. It has exposure to the defence sector via its military and logistics vehicles segment. On the negative side, our holding in WPP was the largest individual detractor, as the advertising group stated that revenues and profit margins are likely to be flat in 2025.
