The returns presented are net of all relevant fees, charges, and costs associated with the unit trust investment. These may include, but are not limited to, management fees, trustee fees, and other applicable charges. Over time, such fees and charges can materially reduce the overall returns on your investment.

It is important to note that the sales charge is deducted upfront and directly reduces the amount of the initial investment that is allocated to the fund, which in turn can have the effect of lowering returns to investors in the long run. These costs may be deducted from your investment amount, from the returns generated, or directly from the Fund's assets, and are reflected in the unit price (NAV per unit). This includes expenses related to the marketing and distribution of the Fund. Additionally, all fees and charges payable to the Manager and the Trustee are subject to applicable taxes and/or duties, which may vary from time to time as imposed by the government.

Given the impact these costs can have on your investment returns, investors are strongly advised to read and understand the contents of the Fund's prospectus and consider the cumulative impact of these costs before making any investment decision.

Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance and that unit prices and investment returns may go down, as well up.

Target Fund Manager's Commentary (as at 31 October 2025)

In October DWS Invest Global Agribusiness (LC share class) was down by -2.11% (in EUR) and -3.60% (in USD).

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns.

The best performing companies were Bunge, Sociedad Quimica Y Minera de Chile and Jeronimo Martins. On the other hand, the weakest performers were FMC, Mosaic and Sao Martinho.

Bunge: The company updated the market with a FY25 EPS guidance post the Viterro-merger closing earlier in the quarter. Bunge's new guidance assumes a lower dilution from the deal than expected which was taken very positive by the market.

Sociedad Quimica Y Minera de Chile: Performance was driven by improved sentiment due to solid Chinese EV production and static energy storage demand is in higher than anticipated demand.

Jeronimo Martins: Solid performance was driven by a strong set of 3Q results with beats across the board, accelerating Polish demand and margins and a resilient backdrop in Portugal.

FMC's performance was driven by weaker than expected results in 3Q, and significant measures taken to prepare its business in India for sale.

Mosaic: Performance was driven by the company's profit warning on production issues in its Phosphate business earlier in the month. Aside from the company specific issues, the broader group of fertilizer companies has also been under pressure in the October. The overall softness is explained on the back of weaker farmer economics in Brazil, as well as in North America, given ongoing trade tensions with China. For MOS it has been the second quarter in a row with a negative pre-announcement made, which has triggered a broader selling of the shares in recent weeks.

Sao Martinho: Performance was driven by lower sugar prices.

Calculation of fund performance is based on the time-weighted return and excludes front-end fees. Individual costs such as fees, commissions and other charges have not been included in this presentation and would have an adverse impact on returns if they were included. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns.

Current Positioning

In October, we reduced our existing upstream position by lowering exposure in fertilizer producers. Additionally, we increased the weighting in a US provider of electronic products.

Current cash level is 0.8%

Investment Strategy and Outlook

Our investment strategy stays the same, the broadened investment universe of the fund provides many investment opportunities along the full value chain within Agribusiness. This includes not only traditional agricultural sectors as seed & crop protection producers, fertilizer, or Ag equipment companies, but also more remote sectors like restaurants, food companies, supermarkets, online food delivery, protein producers and beyond (e.g. chicken, beef, pork, and plant-based alternatives) or aquaculture. These are less or sometimes negatively correlated with the traditional Agribusiness equities and should therefore perform independently of grain commodity prices. Currently we have a balanced approach between upstream and downstream.

The outlook for agricultural commodity prices for 2025/26 is a very heterogenous one. Grains like corn, soybeans and wheat have been sufficiently available after 3 years of rather strong harvests globally and prices have halved from peak levels in 1H 2022, but given strong demand globally, the stocks-to-use ratios are still rather low then high. Also, some other soft commodities like coffee and cattle are on very high.

Also, the new US administration might add to uncertainties with the introduction of tariffs, but we think President Trump will support US farmers, which were key supporters in his re-election. Due to the lack of US soybean exports towards China (tariffs negotiations still ongoing), US farmers could be supported financially from a growing overall cash revenue from tariffs.

Low inventory levels for agricultural commodities ex-soybeans at the world level should continue to limit downside price risks for the complex into 2026. Overall, the sentiment of the US farmers at current stage is slightly deteriorating compared to the 23/24 season.
