The returns presented are net of all relevant fees, charges, and costs associated with the wholesale investment. These may include, but are not limited to, management fees, trustee fees, and other applicable charges. Over time, such fees and charges can materially reduce the overall returns on your investment.

It is important to note that the sales charge is deducted upfront and directly reduces the amount of the initial investment that is allocated to the fund, which in turn can have the effect of lowering returns to investors in the long run. These costs may be deducted from your investment amount, from the returns generated, or directly from the Fund's assets, and are reflected in the unit price (NAV per unit). This includes expenses related to the marketing and distribution of the Fund. Additionally, all fees and charges payable to the Manager and the Trustee are subject to applicable taxes and/or duties, which may vary from time to time as imposed by the government.

Given the impact these costs can have on your investment returns, investors are strongly advised to read and understand the contents of the Fund's information memorandum and consider the cumulative impact of these costs before making any investment decision.

Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance and that unit prices and investment returns may go down, as well up.

Historical income distribution is not indicative of future income distribution payout. The income could be in the form of units or cash. Unit prices and income distribution, if any, may rise or fall. Where an income distribution is declared, investors are advised that following the distribution the net asset value per unit will be reduced from cum-distribution NAV to ex-distribution NAV.

Target Fund Manager's Commentary (as at 31 January 2026)

2026 US economic growth could surpass that of 2025. Potential tailwinds include stimulus from the One Big Beautiful Bill Act (OBBBA – tax cuts/refunds and capital spending acceleration), foreign direct investment from overseas, continued monetary policy easing (including the recently announced asset purchase programme), and steady consumption. Reshoring activity, less regulation, expanding credit, and a rebound in consumer and business confidence are also potential drivers. Improvements in the housing and/or manufacturing sectors could aid growth as well. Key economic risks include heightened geopolitical tensions and elevated fiscal deficits globally. Additionally, if unemployment and/or inflation rise sharply, the odds of an economic slowdown increase.

In an environment where changes in the labour market and prices are more muted, the Fed can continue to target a neutral policy position. Currently, market odds suggest additional interest rate cuts to a range of 3.00-3.25% – a level that is consistent with the Fed's median, longer run projection of 3%.

Accelerating year-over-year earnings growth is expected to be the primary driver of equity market strength in 2026. Aside from the proliferation of AI, earnings tailwinds include productivity gains, low oil prices, corporate buybacks, cost cutting initiatives, and lower interest rates. Expanding earnings breadth could lead to a further broadening out of gains as an increasing number of companies assume market leadership. Earnings headwinds could include rising operating expenses as well as the impact of tariffs.

Against this economic and earnings backdrop, 2026 could be a favourable year for risk assets. Convertible securities could outperform equities again and high yield bonds could deliver another year of coupon-like returns. Given their defensive characteristics, convertible securities and high yield bonds can mitigate market volatility better than equities, which historically average a mid-teens intra-year decline even in annual periods of positive returns.

US convertible securities have an attractive asymmetric return profile, providing upside participation potential when stock prices rise and downside mitigation when stock prices fall. The asset class could outperform the broad equity market again in 2026, helped by solid earnings growth, expanding market breadth, stable credit spreads, and robust new issuance. After a record year of new issuance in 2025, primary market activity likely slows in 2026 but remains elevated around USD 75-80 billion. Aside from diversification benefits, new issuance expands the opportunity set of investments with attractive terms and the desired risk/reward characteristics.

The US high-yield market, yielding more than 7%, offers equity-like returns but with less volatility. The asset class is expected to deliver another year of coupon-like returns in 2026. The market's attractive total return potential is a function of its discount to face value and higher coupon, which also serves to cushion downside volatility. Credit fundamentals are stable, near-term refinancing obligations remain low, and management teams continue to exercise balance sheet discipline. Additionally, the market's credit quality composition has improved. In this environment, new issuance is expected to remain steady, spreads can stay tight, and the default rate should continue to reside below the historical average.

A covered call options strategy can be utilised to generate premium income. In periods of elevated or rising equity volatility, premiums collected may translate into more attractive annualised yields.

Collectively, these three asset classes can provide a steady source of income and a compelling "participate and protect" return profile.

The strategy is a client solution designed to provide high monthly income, the potential for capital appreciation, and less volatility than an equity-only fund.
